PRESS RELEASE 15 January 2015

Pettis County Assessor, Karissa Logan, would like to announce that online filing is available for the 2015 personal property renditions. This is the first year owners of personal property have the option to file online. Located near the top of the assessment sheet that was mailed to you, is the account number, the online website address to go to, and the e-file pin. Each account has its own unique account number as well as a unique e-file pin to ensure security. Detailed instructions are on the website. The filing deadline is the same as the paper filing deadline—March 1st. Online filing is optional. Owners of personal property can continue to mail their completed paper forms in if they choose to do so. Filings are based on what the property owner owned as of January 1st of 2015.

The 2015 personal property filings are due by March 1st, whether filing online or mailing back the completed form. State statute requires all assessors' offices to impose a penalty if the sheet is returned after the March 1st date.

Personal property sheets have the previous year's reported property printed at the top. If you have no changes for 2015, check the NO CHANGE box, sign, and return. If you have changes for 2015, check the CHANGES HAVE BEEN MADE box, cross out the listed item (if you sold the item or traded it), and list any new items (including the VIN) in the appropriate categories below.

If you need any assistance or did not receive a sheet and should have, please visit us on the second floor of the Pettis County Courthouse, or call us at 660-826-5000 x 417, 418, or 419
